THE enclos'd Letter was given me by a Gentleman of this City, to whom it was wrote, with an Aſſurance of its being genuine. My beſt Entreaties could not however procure an Explanation of it from him, which has only ſerved to raiſe my Curioſity the higher; for like the reſt of Mankind, I am very willing to conclude, that what I cannot underſtand, hath ſomething uſeful and profound couched underneath. Some Things in it, indeed, ſeem at firſt View pretty plain, but then others again confound the whole, and are more extravagant and myſterious than any Thing that can be found in the chimerical Realms of Mandeville or Gulliver. I wiſh you could get ſome of our penetrating Virtuoſoes to diſſect the Carcaſe of it, and am

Your humble Servant, &c,

Dear NED, March 1. 1737.

I WAS agreeably ſurpris'd at the Account you give of your Happineſs in that Part of the World where Providence has placed you; for our Political Orators here, declare, that your Civil Liberty is no better than Licenciouſneſs; your Religious Liberty nothing but Schiſm, Scepticiſm, and Infidelity; the Security of your Property but an uncontrouled Continuation of vexatious Litigiouſneſs; your Trade little better than an induſtrious Concealment of real Poverty; with many other Particulars of the like Nature, too many to tire you with at preſent.

The Difference in Opinion ariſes no doubt from different Circumſtances. It will be but fair then to give you ſome Account of our happy Country: A Country, where private Credit is full as high and ſecure as that of the Paper Money; where Sharping, Tricking and Squeezing is ſo much diſcouraged, that it would be the height of Impudence in the Higheſt to reproach the Loweſt with it; where the Duty of Dependance is juſt as proſperous as the Regulation of Officers Fees; where we are as well ſecur'd from Corruption by the Example of our Superiors, as againſt the Small-Pox by the Wiſdom of our Law; where the Learning of the Magiſtrates can be equall'd by nothing but their own Care; where Government and Liberty are as ſafe as they can be between Diſcontents and Timeſervers, which make at this Time as adequate a Diviſion amongſt us as Male and Female, for thoſe of a middle Character are as rare as Hermaphrodites; in ſhort, where Zeal for the Publick Good is as mild as the Seaſon, and the Publick Tranquility as ſafe as Dagenham Breach, ſecure not by the natural Bent of the Stream, but by the Force that keeps it in.

But whence, ſay you, do all theſe mighty Bleſſings flow? What need I mention other Cauſe than PREROGATIVE, a Vegetable ſtunted in its native Soil, and about half a Century ago, tranſplanted into this warmer Clime, hath here brought forth the truly Golden Fruit, here cheriſhed by the warm Dung and Hotbed of COUNCIL OF STATE, it buds forth the blooming WE, and grows luxuriant with the ſpreading Branches of OUR WILL AND PLEASURE. No pernicious Inſects, the ſpontaneous Offspring of uncultivated Nature, can poiſon it; no noxious Breath of quibbling Lawyers can blaſt it; no impertinent Reſolves of jealous-pated Aſſemblies can lop it; not even Exotick Law, whoſe Power no native Plant ever yet withſtood, can ſhake it; happy now in its thriving SURPLUS Shoot, and more happy ſtill to be, in that even the DEAD muſt feel the Effects of its powerful Influence.

Oh! could you be here to behold the Legiſlature, a ſtupendous Machine! to outward View indeed, ſupported by three Pillars, but too unworthy of the Wiſdom of this Generation would it be to build upon the Models of their Anceſtors, either here or at home. The cunning Artiſt therefore hath intwined the two firſt together, ſo as to ſtand upon one Baſis, tho' to the incurious Eye at ſome Diſtance, two ſtill appear. Thus by the artful Diſpoſition of Shades and Colours on the flat Wall of Greenwich Hall, we are deceived into the Appearance of a fluted Pillar. The excellent Uſe and manifold Advantages of this Contrivance, may perhaps give me Occaſion to entertain you hereafter, chooſing rather at preſent to give you ſome brief Account of the Working of this wonderful Machine.

Two principal Movements there are, which, for Diſtinction-ſake, I ſhall call the Grand and the Petit Maître. The firſt is truly ſo, works ſlow ſure, and without Noiſe, but pretty much out of Sight. The other, juſt the Reverſe, moves quick, ſeems to carry great Weight and Force with it, but all is owing to Wind and Noiſe, Vox & preterea nihil. A third there ſeems, and is alſo ſaid to act, but improperly, an inconſtant Wheel, (if ſuch it may at all be called) heretofore retarded or quickned by every the ſmalleſt Accident of Duſt or Ruſt, tho' at preſent it ſeems pretty well greaſed into Motion.

But the wonderful Faculty of the Maîtres making Folk believe the Machine to be in Motion, when it ſtands ſtock ſtill, and this contrary to the plaineſt Evidence of Sence, is not one of the leaſt entertaining Effects of its Mechaniſm. Amongſt many Inſtances which might be given, take the following one for the preſent. Once upon a time the Grand Maître made publick Proclamation, that ſuch a Day the Machine might be ſeen and felt in Motion by every Body. A mighty Croud, to the Number at leaſt of 5000 were gathered together together upon ſo ſolemn an Occaſion. After a tedious Expectation from Morning till Night, attended with ſufficient Periods of Gaping and Staring and Feeling and Liſtening, the People began firſt to murmur, then to cry out Shame at ſuch glaring Impudence, and in a little time did not ſtick to ſay, that it was no better than a downright Cheat. At this Juncture in came the Maîtres, and underſtanding what was in the Wind, the Grand Maitre, contrary to his uſual Method, raved and ſtamped and curſed and ſwore moſt bitterly, and pawn'd not only his Soul but his PREROGATIVE upon it, that they were a Pack of wilful poſitive illiterate Puppies. Look you, Gentlemen, ſays he, to ſuch Fellows as you are, who pretend to judge all by your Eyes and Fingers, I ſhall uſe but one plain Argument. By G-d the Machine is now in its moſt violent Motion. Rags and Cold ſhall be his Portion, who ſhall preſume to whiſper the contrary. Not a Soul ſhall budge a foot to Market even for an oznabrig Shirt, or a Kearſey Jacket; and then you, your Wives, Children and Servants may make your uſual Figure, without a Rag to your Ar-es, like a Rabble of tatterdemallion Scoundrels as ye are.

This however, as the Story goes, might have produc'd a Rupture, had not the Petit Maître ſtept in, and with his uſual Sneer, and moſt humble Impudence, made the following Harangue.

Gentlemen, ſays he, pray take me right; with all due Submiſſion I conceive, that not one amongſt you all ever did, ever could or ever will rightly underſtand what Motion is, and what are its various eccentrick, concentrick, retrograde, oblique and other its manifold Laws and Powers. Gentlemen, if it was poſſible for Men of your Capacities to underſtand it, I could let you know that there are many Laws of Motion to be conſidered upon this Occaſion, ſuch as Reviving, Re-enacting, Repealing, and Re-repealing Laws. Here was he interrupted by a plain Fellow, who told his Honour, that with the moſt profound Submiſſion he took it, the Queſtion was not concerning thoſe ſtrange Laws of Motion, his Honour was a talking about, but whether in Truth there was any Motion at all: For, for his Blood, he could not perceive any, and to his Eyes and Fingers it ſtood as ſtock ſtill as his Grandam's Spinning-Wheel, that had been thrown by theſe fifteen Years paſt. This lucky Interruption gained the Petit Maître an entire Victory. What! ſays he, does it become me to anſwer every impertinent Blockhead, for no other reaſon than that he preſumes to interrupt me? Without more ado then, in ſo plain a Caſe, Gentlemen, I intirely ſubmit it to your Wiſdom, Judgment and Learning, whether the beſt way of confuting ſuch Fellows as this, when they begin to prate, and to ſet up what they call their Senſes, againſt Reaſon and Underſtanding, is not to give them no Anſwer at all. This ſophiſtical Nothing could not fail to gain the Applauſes of the terrified Mobile, each of whom now dreaded the Treatment of his Brother Loggerhead, ſhould he ſay a Word in Defence of the Goodneſs of his Eyes or Fingers. And thus, to make ſhort of my Story, during this Interval of Common Senſe, and Triumph of Inſolence and Chicanery, did this imaginary Motion of this wonderful Machine, (whoſe real Motion you know is powerfully attractive of Gold and Silver) extract within the Space of one revolving Sun, no leſs than 40,000 Engliſh Shillings, out of the Pockets of the gaping Crowd; who now began to be verily perſuaded, that they were as much deceiv'd in imagining their Pockets were lighter, as they were before in imagining the Machine ſtood ſtock ſtill.

Next let me lead you into our Courts of Juſtice, a no leſs new than beautiful Scene! Imagine to your ſelf that in Weſtminſter Hall you ſaw my Lord Chancellor deſcending from his Bench to plead as an Advocate at the Bar of the King's Bench; and then the Lord Chief Juſtice of that Court, in like manner and with like Submiſſion, becoming an Advocate in the Court of Chancery. Imagine farther, that you ſaw them both deſcending from their high Courts, and acting as Lawyers and Pettyfoggers before petty Juſtices of a Quarter Seſſions of the Peace. Would not theſe be new Improvements in the Law? and can you think but Juſtice would be more eaſily and happily adminiſtred, when the learned Judge of a Superior Court, condeſcends to dictate and explain the Law to an inferior One? Thus then it is here. His Honour of one Court no way diſdains to appear as a Pleader before his Honour of the other Court; and ſurely it would be the higheſt Ingratitude for his Honour of the other Court not to pay him the like Compliment. Thus have I ſeen the Judge transform'd into an Advocate, and the Advocate transformed into a Judge, in leſs time than Harlequin or Scaramouche could ſhift his Fool's Coat in the Play-houſe. So likewiſe both their Honours will not diſdain to become Advocates before their Worſhips; where it would do your Heart good, to hear the Bar Worſhipping the Bench, and the Bench in return moſt civilly Honouring the Bar; and if any ignorant pert Lawyer, ſhould think himſelf ſo much upon the Level, as to contradict their Honours, to ſee the Bench in Amaze at his Aſſurance, and the gaping Crowd bleſſing themſelves for ſuch an uninterrupted Harmony between Law and Juſtice.

All this, perhaps you'll ſay, is but Ridicule, and Things may go well notwithſtanding. If this ſhould be your real Sentiment, it may receive an Anſwer hereafter: But for the preſent, to be a little more ſerious, Suppoſe you ſhould ſee the Regiſter of Chancery, whoſe Profits and Fees grow due as well from the Number as the Length of Proceedings, taking upon himſelf to act as Attorney & Lawyer, or Counſellor, in that Court, and thereby commencing Actions, not only without the Direction, but contrary to the expreſs Command of the Suitor; & when commenced, lengthning out Bills, Anſwers, Copies, Orders, Decrees, Injunctions, Pleas, Reports, Depoſitions, and a thouſand other Particulars you and I know nothing of. Suppoſe further, you ſaw the very ſame Perſon as Clerk or Prothonotary both in the King's Bench and Common Pleas by the Authority and unanimous Reſolutions of both Courts, there likewiſe acting as Attorney and Lawyer in both Courts, and for his own Benefit Tautologizing of Pleadings, lengthning out Special Verdicts, directing unneceſſary Tryals, and making impertinent Exceptions; all which even under the moſt honeſt Regulation, are the Scandal and Reproach of the beſt Laws in the Univerſe; Hah! my Friend, would this too be Ridicule? Would it be ſufficient to anſwer that the Gentleman is a Perſon of undoubted Merit and Honour; that it would be the higheſt Ingratitude in the Community even to ſuſpect the leaſt Extortion in him, who in all his Actions, and in the worſt of Times, ſhewed himſelf the true Patriot, againſt the Encroachments of Prerogative, and the overbearings of Authority; or to imagine the leaſt Avarice or Corruption in him, who hath no proud Palaces to build, no Pride or Foppery to gratify, no luxurious or coſtly Tables to furniſh at the Expence of the Publick, and out of the Labour and Sweat of the Poor and Laborious. Would this I ſay be a ſufficient Anſwer?---But I am growing too ſerious, and the Poſt luckily calling for my Letter, I conclude,

Your affectionate Friend,
and Humble Servant,
A. B.

WHEREAS Thomas Jones of London Street near Ratcliff-Croſs, late Maſter of the Elizabeth, Mariner, did in his Paſſage from Lisbon to London, go with the ſaid Ship into Guernzey, where he commenced a Suit for his Wages and Disburſements; but when he found the Honourable the Jurats of that Court were not to be impoſed on by fictitious Accounts, and that a Decree muſt inevitably go againſt him there, he precipitately withdrew from thence, and 'tis not generally known ſince where he is: He is ſaid to give out, that the Owner of the ſaid Ship is indebted to him, and refuſes to ſettle his Accounts.

In order therefore to prevent any Perſon being deceived by ſuch his Inſinuations, and to induce him to come to a fair Accompt, this is to give Notice to the ſaid Thomas Jones, that if he will appear, and give good Security to ſettle his Accompts with the ſaid Owner, by Arbitration of Merchants mutually choſen in London, and to abide by their Award, he, giving ſuch Security, ſhall receive Twenty Guineas from the ſaid Owner, Daniel Flexney.

London, Feb. 4. 1737,8

Philadelphia, in Pennſylvania, April 28. 1738.

WHEREAS an Advertiſement, ſigned Daniel Flaxney, is inſerted in the Pennſylvania Gazette, No. 489. relating to my Conduct in the Ship Elizabeth, whereof I the Subſcriber was Maſter; and as the ſame Advertiſement was alſo printed in London, in a News-Paper of 4th February laſt, when it was known to the ſaid Flaxney I was on my Voyage for the Weſt-Indies and this Port. I think it a Duty I owe to my Character to defend my ſelf from thoſe Charges that are inſinuated in the ſaid News-Papers, and alſo to inform the Publick of the whole of my Conduct in the ſaid Ship, whereby it may appear how falſe and malitious, as well as groundleſs, the ſaid Charges are in every reſpect. Indeed I muſt own that many of my Friends here have told me they thought it unneceſſary to anſwer the ſaid Advertiſement, ſince Mr. Flaxney's Character and Reputation in his Dealings, is ſo well known in this Place, and that he is generally very unfortunate in all Accounts of any Conſequence, that he can't ſettle them without Suits, both in Law and Equity: But as the ſaid Papers may be ſent to Places, and read by Perſons who are Strangers to his general Character; and as I am, and have been for many Years, a Maſter of ſeveral Ships, and may happen to be at ſome of thoſe Places, I therefore publiſh my Caſe, which was thus; Some time in the Month of November, 1735, I was appointed Maſter of the ſaid Ship at the Port of London, by the ſaid Daniel Flaxney, Sen. and the ſaid Ship being in want of Cordage and other Neceſſaries, to fit her for a Voyage then intended for St. Lucar and Cadiz: And accordingly, I, by the ſaid Flaxney's Orders, directed ſeveral Tradeſmen to find and provide for her, all thoſe things that were Proper and abſolutely Neceſſary for her, and afterwards proceeded on the ſaid Voyage. And whilſt I was out with the ſaid Ship, I remitted to the ſaid Flaxney upwards of Four Hundred and Five Pounds Eighteen Shillings, Sterling, neet Proceeds of Freight, made whilſt I was out with the ſaid Ship, as by the Original Papers (now in Philadelphia) I can prove. And when I was at Lisbon, I received ſeveral Letters from the ſeveral Tradeſmen who had found the ſaid Materials for the ſaid Ship, adviſing me that they applied to and had a meeting with ſaid Flaxney, in order to get Payment from him of their ſaid reſpective Bills, which he abſolutely refuſed to pay, though he had received the ſaid 400 l. Sterling and upwards long before. And the ſaid Letters further informing me, the Subſcriber, that he the ſaid Flaxney had ſaid he would diſpoſſeſs me of the Ship before the ſaid Tradeſmen were paid, or my Accounts ſettled: And as Freight is the Fund out of which ought to ariſe the Money for Payment of the ſaid Bills, as well as of the Sailors Wages, I therefore proceeded with the ſaid Ship from Lisbon to Dartmouth, and finding ſeveral Powers againſt me and the Ship, ſent by the ſaid Tradeſmen for their ſaid Demands, I ſailed for the Iſland Guernzey, and ſoon after adviſed ſaid Flaxney of it, and ſaid Flaxney afterwards came to the ſaid Iſland of Guernzey. And though ſeveral Letters were ſent, and Applications were made to him by Gentlemen there, that if he would undertake to pay the ſaid Tradeſmens Bills, and ſettle Accounts with me, that then the ſaid Ship ſhould be delivered up to him, which he declined and refuſed to do: Whereupon I was adviſed by ſome Gentlemen there, to get the ſaid Ship in a Sailing Condition as ſoon as I could, which accordingly I did, and within three Hours after, a Proceſs iſſued out of the Court there, at the Inſtance and at the Suit of the ſaid Daniel Flaxney, againſt me and the ſaid Ship, which was ſoon after ſerved on me and the Ship, upon which I appeared in Court there, and proving that the ſaid ſeveral Tradeſmen had ſent the ſaid Letters and Powers, as aforeſaid, and were then unpaid, and that I had remitted him the Money before mentioned, the ſaid Court ordered, That before I ſhould deliver the ſaid Ship to him, he ſhould pay the ſaid Tradeſmen's ſaid Bills, and ſhould alſo give good Security in the ſaid Iſland that he would ſettle Accounts with and pay me in the ſaid Iſland what ſhall be found due from the ſaid Daniel Flaxney to me, either by Arbitrators or due Couſe of Law, in the ſaid Iſland. Accordingly a Bond under the Hand of Nicholas Debree, Sen. a noted Merchant in the ſaid Iſland, was given as Security to the Subſcriber for that Purpoſe, which remains yet in Force, the Original whereof is now alſo in Philadelphia, And this is the whole of my Dealing with, or Tranſactions relating to the ſaid Ship. What gives me the greateſt Satisfaction, next to that of my being Innocent of every thing inſinuated in the ſaid Advertiſments, is that I am in a Place where both of us are well known, and that the ſaid Advertiſement was inſerted whilſt I was in Philadelphia, & had an Opportunity to anſwer it, and that I have all the Original Papers now in Philadelphia to prove the ſeveral Matters, as before related. And in Order to ſatisfy all Perſons of the Truth of the Facts as aforeſaid, I ſhall leave Copies of all the Papers, Bills and Receipts with Andrew Bradford, Printer. And as I may apprehend ſome further Deſign intended, than what I am at preſent appriſed of, becauſe the ſaid Advertiſement was inſerted in the ſaid News-Paper in Philadelphia juſt before I was to ſail: I therefore do hereby give Notice, that I now (God willing) am proceeding on a Voyage to the Iſland of Antigua, and from thence to London, where I hope the ſaid Daniel Flaxney and I ſhall meet and do each other Juſtice. Thomas Jones.

N. B. That Gentlemen may not miſtake, the Perſon is one Daniel Flaxney, formerly an Apothecary, living in Biſhops-Gate-Street near Clarks Alley, who precipitately, for his Health Sake, went to Jamaica about five Years ſince.

RUN away on the 16th Inſt. from Cornelius Vanhorne and others, of Upper Freehold, in Monmouth County, New-Jerſey, an Engliſh Servant Man that the ſaid Vanhorne and others imploy'd to teach School, named James Yates, a ſhort round ſhoulder'd Fellow, ſtoops forward as he walks, of a dark Complexion and Pock-broken, ſpeaks ſhort and quick: He took with him a good Hat, two Wigs, one of Natural Hair, the other a white one, a good mixt-colour'd homeſpun Drugget Coat with Buttons and Holes underneath, and the Pockets under within the Lineing, a good brown Duroy Veſt, new Leather Breeches, old Shoes, and mixt blue and white Stockings. He pretends to be a Scholar, and to have met with great Loſſes by his Travels and Trading. He went in Company with one Elizabeth Perry, Servant to the ſaid Vanhorne, an Engliſh Woman, aged about 20 Years, middle ſiz'd, freſh-colour'd and ſquint ey'd: She had on a ſtriped ſtuff Gown, a Cloak without a Cape, two ſtriped Petticoats, a white Apron and a red and white ſpeckled one, ſtrong low leather-heel'd Shoes.

Whoever ſecures the ſaid Servants or either of them, ſo that they may be had again, ſhall have Five pounds Reward for both, or Fifty Shillings for each, and reaſonable Charges paid by Cornelius Vanhorne.
